

OneEurope Publishing Guide

Welcome in the beta, it's great to have you on board!

There are a couple of things which need your attention now. The first one is that as we are still beta, so you might run into some problems from time to time. We're working hard to overcome those infant illnesses though, so give us all feedback you have, we'll appreciate it very much!

You can find the entrance to the publishing back end at <http://one-europe.info/auth/login>, your username and password have been given to you already. Please change the latter later.

Next, please populate your profile. You can find the options page under "My Profile" in the main menu (or by pressing Q and Y to get there).

The absolute minimum that our software needs in order to process your articles is a display name, but we're optimistic that you'll want to fill in the rest as well. :) Some explanations:

- Display Name: The name that will appear under 'written by...'
- User Name: Your unique user name, you can actually change it, but there's no reason why to do this, and after all it's much easier for us to find you in the database if there should be any troubles, so just let it as it is
- Email: We don't have any functionality yet that can use it, but please enter it as well
- Portrait URL: The link that everyone will get forwarded to when they click on your 'written by...' links. Please paste your Profile URL here (probably one-europe.info/yourname)
- Teaser: Will be shown on /profiles and when you appear in the sidebar
- Desc. Sentence: Is to be shown below all your articles, you could write something like "[yourname] is [your job, title, whatever] at [location] and does [...]"
- Homepage: If you got a homepage, blog, whatever you like, here's the right place for it.
- Twitter: If you're on twitter and want readers to follow you, enter your username here (without @ pls!)
- Photo URL: URL of a picture of yourself, we're sorry it's not possible yet to upload pics simply
- About Text: Your main text, you have a maximum of 1500 characters.
- Facebook: If you're an individual, add the link to your profile here. If you're the latter and have turned on the subscription feature in your facebook preferences, you can check the checkbox and we'll embed a subscribe-button on your profile (in case it's checked and subscribing is deactivated it'll result in an error message, don't do that). If you'd rather like to have the like button of your page, insert the respective link below.

Don't forget the "http://"s for all links please.

All of the above is soon going to be shown in info boxes on the options page so you don't have to come back here. In case there are any questions you can always reach us on info@one-europe.info.

So long! :)